Ein Stein für jeden Anlaß
(A Crystal for every Occasion)
By Michael Gienger

The latest title from Michael Gienger's popular "little series"

Well-wishing with crystals

My best friend is getting married, my brother is just recovering from an illness, one of my colleagues has had a baby, my brother-in-law is opening a new shop, my mother will be 70 years old...

There are so many occasions to wish our fellow human beings all the very best – and choosing the right crystals can back up our wishes with extra energy.

Which crystal to choose for the occasion and how it may suit the particular wish is explained in this handy little book illustrated with atmospheric photographs.

The Message of the Crystals

Greetings and presents made of crystals are messages of a very special kind. Crystals lend energy, bring joy, help with healing, protect, strengthen, encourage trust, and bring consolation. In their special way they express affection and help capture special moments and events through their presence. Crystals are much more than just words. They are visible, touchable, can be felt and sensed, can be worn or held in one's hand, and are therefore excellent companions in both joyful and difficult times. They are immortal gifts, patient, ever ready, and simply there when we need them. Let us give them and ourselves an opportunity to speak...

Michael Gienger, who has for 25 years been a spokesperson for the crystals, has lovingly transformed their messages into words; they are words which are proof of a deep understanding between crystals and humans, and thus make the silent language of the crystals audible in a very beautiful way, enabling us to open ourselves to the gift of the crystals.

Michael Gienger has been conducting research in the field of crystal healing since he was 21 years old. His initiative led to the founding in 2009 of the charitable organization, Fair Trade Minerals & Gems e. V.. He has, so far, published twenty works in a total of twelve languages. At present he is working with a team of twelve people on his greatest project, a new encyclopaedia of healing crystals.

In Memoriam (In Memoriam)

By Petra Moeller and Karin Steinhoeft

Living one's grief – finding the freedom for a new life

The two female authors have had their own sad and painful experiences and have learned how grief that is not lived out properly may prevent us from integrating the loss of the beloved person in our lives and thus making us free. With this deck of cards they offer bereaved persons an aid to living through grief in all its many facets – the rage, the tears and the despair, until the irreversible facts can finally find acceptance.

Their work consists of a set of 24 cards with an accompanying book. The cards present the user with the whole range of feelings, which one lives through when one has lost a beloved person.

The grieving person is addressed on three levels:

1. On a psychological level an image accompanies the user via visual perceptions into one's feelings, so that one may open up.
2. This feeling is then further addressed and enhanced within the texts, which are also medially received.
3. In addition, a certain "little mourning lady", who accompanies the reader through the book, gives well-meaning advice, thus also addressing the grieving person on an intellectual level.

At the end of each card text she utters a little magical sentence, which is simply geared to reminding the grieving person of his or her everyday life, to feel himself or herself, and to live.

Petra Moeller became intensely involved with grief work after her husband's death in an accident. Nowadays she utilizes her own experience and several types of training to help other people find a way back to their lives after the grieving period, among other methods, through writing.

Karin Steinhöft had to learn, through her son's suicide, how much courage is required in order to allow the pain arising from the grief to be felt, how to get herself together again after the death of a beloved person, and to begin new things. Painting was her way of helping herself and others.

Schöpfer-Ich (I, the Creator)

By Daniel Buehling

Living and organizing our lives the way we want

We all carry within us deep-seated programmes, which keep us locked in patterns of behaviour and prevent us from living out our creative potential. In this book experienced hypnotherapist Daniel Buehling not only explains how our thoughts and feelings influence us, but above all, how we may steer them into different channels in a targeted way; through directions for self-hypnosis in his book and on the accompanying CD.

The basic conditions for a fulfilled and meaningful life consist of realizing one's own life goals, dreams and wishes. Just imagine a world in which all your wishes and plans had been realized. Your life plans become real. What you can think or imagine, you can now hold in your hands.

Impossible? Finding out that this is anything but impossible, and in what brilliantly simple ways things can be transformed into reality, is demonstrated with the principle of "I, the Creator". The key to your own creativity lies not in the hands of others, but simply and only within you.

How you may use this key correctly and what role your thoughts play in all this, why visions and feelings have an important place and function, and how hypnosis may support one in this, is explained in the book in a step-by-step process. Numerous exercises and tests, as well as directions for self-hypnosis, simplify and support the creative process. In this way you will learn to be fully conscious of what you always really were: a Creator.

Initially Daniel Buehling wanted to be a priest, however during his studies of Catholic theology, he realized that, behind the scenes within the Church, things were rather different than he had imagined.

He terminated his study of theology, and since then he has been working as an author and hypnosis coach, as well as doing inter-denominational spiritual welfare work. Through his hypnotherapy and directions for self-hypnosis he has been able to help many people realize their true potential and thus lead a fulfilled and self-determined life. In Liebe geboren – ins Leben getragen – geborgen auf Erden
(Conceived in love – carried into life – protected on Earth)

by Nadine Wenger

What woman would not desire a simple, happy birth for her child? – If it is possible to liberate oneself, even during pregnancy, from all anxieties and worries, then this goal really can be attained. Giving birth is a very natural, a healthy process, which can be experienced in love and joy without dramatic pain.

The author proves by her own experiences that a baby will bring joy and happiness if its needs are properly understood and met. She also gives the readers a very personal insight into her experiences.

Many misunderstandings and semi-truths abound regarding the subject of pregnancy and children. This book would like to help clear away false theories and lay a foundation for ways of approaching these subjects which actually work in practise – ways that hark back to Nature, to natural birth, and a more natural way of looking after a baby.

The book's twelve large sections present many personal examples and very practical ways of doing all this.

Nadine Wenger has had the courage to look for new departures and, with her four children, has determinedly gone her own path, far removed from old patterns and conventions.

Nadine Wenger is a dance teacher and used to work as an air stewardess. More recently she has undergone training to become a spiritual birth companion, and now passes on her experiences, in the form of courses on natural pregnancy and childbirth, and raising a baby without nappies...
